If you enjoy tonight's performance of our pantomime, with it's cast of hundreds, its massed bands and dancing girls,you may well be in the mood to consider Sanderstead Dramatic Club's next presentation. This is to be something altogether different. From a cast of hundreds to a cast of two and not a dancing girl in sight. No songs, but a wonderfully witty and often touching play, Willy Russell's EDUCATING RITA. It's about a hairdresser who wants to get herself an education, and an English professor trying to drown his failure in whisky. They bicker and snap and argue throughout the teaching process. But at the end, both have learned how to come to terms with themselves. It is a marvellous piece of drama and funny, too. EDUCATING RITA will be staged here at All Saint's Hall from Thursday, April 21st to Saturday, April 23rd, 1988.
